ASPIRING ENTERTAINMENT/TELEVISION PRODUCTION PROFESSIONALS JOIN SAREA-FLO PRODUCTIONS FOR A SUMMER INTERNSHIP

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

July 14, 2022

(Washington D.C.) - Ten D.C. youth have become interns with Sarea-Flo Productions to gain more experience in film and television production, video production, theater arts and writing. The new interns are Ayana Nwozo, Kenlaun Mitchell, Taariq Saadiq, Sarah Ruiz, Phillonda Williams, Kiara McRae Cameron Gray, Hamirah Jones, David Caruth and Isaiah King.

Interns come from diverse educational backgrounds ranging from undergraduate students, masters students, and college graduates. The university students intern study at the University of the District of Columbia, University of Miami, Syracuse University, Shaw University and others.

Interns are studying majors and have degrees related to Sarea-Flo Productions such as Liberal Arts, Music Business & Entertainment Industries, Journalism and Media studies to name a few. All these educational experiences correlate with the projects created throughout the program.

Here is a personal insight into why choosing to intern with Sarea-Flo Productions was the best opportunity for this summer:

Taariq Saadiq is a current Liberal Arts student at the University of the District of Columbia. He applied to be a part of this team because he felt this was the best place to learn more about film and television production and sharpen my skills as an artist. "I hope to gain some more experience as a writer by having subjects and deadlines given to me so I can learn to create under pressure" said Saadiq.

Kiara McRae, is a recent graduate of Trinity Washington university with a B.A. in Journalism and Media studies. She states " I wanted to join Sarea-Flo Productions because me and Ms. Dameka shared the same views surrounding Black women and their place in Film/TV production. We need more storytellers that look like us and we're in desperate need of representation in mostly white-dominated spaces, as it's hard being the only Black person on your team despite the occupation."

All interns are passionate about entertainment and television production in which this internship will hone skills, and allow creativity to flow among the team.
